New York Evening Post Takes Up the Cause

THE OSAGE INDIANS

New York Tribune Mixes in the Fight on Barnes.

Guthrie, O. T., Aug. 4-The New York papers have lately taken great interest in the affairs of Oklahoms. The New York Tribune is trying to stir up trouble against Governor Barnes, for one, item and now comes the New York Evening Post curs in a dispatch to the Post from Washington which says: It may be remembered that an attempt was made in the last congress to enact a law for the diversion of money held by the government in trust for the Osage Indians to the payment of the debts of the Indians to some of the local traders. The lobbyists who made this proposal argued very earnestly that the traders were good friends of the Inslians and let them have credit when meeded, and that therefore such legislanion was in the nature of the recognition of a just claim. But too many of the suembers understood the situation to permilt any such plea to prevail. They knew That the traders would simply go on letning the Indians increase, their credits indefinitely, if the government showed itcolf ready to stand behind the white credifor. So plain was the whole game that stot. a decent man on the Indian comenittee of tiecohrhuse shrdl hr ldurdulJ willtee of either house could be induced to support it, and the legislation fell the ninth inning, when the fireworks be. licious man. His Method of Getting Jester Out of the Territory

CONSIDERED TOO RADICAL

To Suit Western Ideas of Judicial Procedure.

Guthrie, O. T., Aug. 4-The spirit of reentment against Millionaire Gate's method of getting old man Jester out of the territory finds expression in the communcation to the Shawnes Quill this week which reads as follows:

"In justice to Judge Burwell it is proper the public should correctly understand the scope and extent of his interrention in the Jester case, and not confound him with the kidnappers. Mr. Pitman filed a motion, questioning the jurisdiction of the probate court in habeas corpus cases. That motion had not been decided when Mr. Pitman applied to Judge Burwell cannot be construed into an order for the release of Jester, or to remand him to the Missouri sheriff.

"Jester was in fall under the order of the probate court, and nobody had any authority to take him out of the custody of the jailer without specific orders of the probate or a higher court.

"This is a serious question, involving the liberty of every citizen. The habeas corpus is the only protection from arbitrary arrest. Even with that safeguard great wrongs are constantly being pernecuated. Only a few days ago the governors of Alabama and Georgia were imposed upon, and an innocent woman was dragged from her home in Georgia to Alabama on a charge trumped up by a maprisoned the prosecutor.

"Now, in the Jester case, he had appealed to the law, and was entitled to all the benefits of the law, whether innocent or guilty, on which point I do not ex-

"If Mr. Gates was so certain that Jester was the right man, he should have waited the few days necessary to fully demonstrate that fact. His lavish expenditure of money ($1 for blacking shoes, etc.) and the disrespect he had shown for the judiciary of Okiahoma, raises a strong presumption that he is either an overbear ing, tyranical snob, who thinks his money should outweight the rights of other peo ple, or he is a conspirator against the life of an innecent man.

"At the least, it is the duty of our off clais to probe the matter to the bottom and punish any and all who have trampled the law under foot, teaching people of other states that we respect ourselves and that we demand respect of them."
